Since the formal and deliberate endorsement by the Republicans of 'Helper's' text book of treason and sedition, there can be no unfairness or illiberality in claiming that the dividing line between Republicanism and Abelitionism has be come hardly a line of demarcation-the underlying principle of both is the same, viz: a false and maudlin philanthropy; the starting point of both is the same, viz: denationalization and sectionalism; their pathway indentical, viz: a rancorous and unhallowed agitation. They have the same inevitable consummation and goal, viz: treason, civil war, and all their horrible accompaniments. That the proof may not be wanting, I extract from this infamous volume, that Would RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE TO your readers may see that I am writing "by the card," and that the "Helper" doctrine, which the Republican leaders after full and mature deliberation, have of determined to incorporate into their text for 1860, is a decided capping the climax of Seward's "irrepressible conflict phantasy.

As first principles are always important Helper observes the rule, and lays down the following as maxims: "Slaveholders are a nuisance."

"It is our imperative business to abate nuisances."

"We propose to exterminate the catalogue from beginning to end." "We believe that thieves are as a ger eral rule less amenable to the moral last than slaveholders." "Slaveholders are more crimipal than common murderers." "Slaveholders and slave-traders are as a general thing, unfit to secupy any honorable station in life." "It is our hones conviction that all the pro-slavery slaveholders, who are alone responsible for the continuance of the baneful institution among us, deserve to be at once reduced to a parallel within to be at once reduced to a parallel within the bast criminals that lie fettered within do business, and they will confine themselves exclusively to the Boot, Shoe and Leather trade. Demo crats! conservative, Union loving constitutionalists, through the length and breadth of the land; on the firm and immovable footing of a broad and patriotic nationality, prepare to receive the onset of the new crusade which is about being launched against the ark of your political convenant; legatees of an inheritance of political wisdom and patriotism that seems almost the work of inspiration; beneficiaries of a political harvest richer than was ever gathered into the garners of the most splendid political success and achievement; trustees for prosperity of institutions purchased with untold blood and treasure, cling to these recollections and inspirations, as to the Egis of your strength, the panoply of your safety, the alma mater of your courage and resolution - elevate yourselves to the thought, and make it a habit of your minds—that as it was your Father's mission to pass through the fiery furnace of trial for the purpose of building up these institutions, so it may become your mission to pass through the same fiery furnace for the purpose of perpetuating them. BEECHER, of Brooklyn, who has been so outfit for the woods. loud-mouthed in favor of abolitionism for several years past, has undergone a change, and his views are evidently moderating. A heated discussion lately occurred in his church relative to the disposition of the contributions for foreign missions. The abolition portion contended that no collections should be taken in the church for the American Board of Foreign Missions, denominating that association as nothing else than the very parent of slavery itself. To the surprise of all, Mr. Berchen defended the Board, and moreover told some truths about the fanatieism now so prevalent that quite shocked his abolition confreres.

The anti-slavery spirit has become so great that it is factious. Such men as Garrison and Phillips should be repudiated, and the Union should be maintiged, and the Union should be maintiged at all hayards. The meeting tained at all hazards. The meeting coincided with his views, and it was voted Fruit and Shade Trees. to contribute to the funds of the Board.
